

Oh Sajjad

Sajjad the oppressors have shackled you in chains

They have shackled you with the grief of Hussain a.s

And now they have shackled you in separation

Like on that hot desert plain
You lay with no shade in all your pain

Today they have removed your dome

So again the Sun burns the place you now call home

But just as before they find you formidable Although upon you the pressure be intense they are the ones that have become pitiful

Through thick and thin you remained calm
Even as you cried thrice "Ash Shaam, Ash Shaam, Ash Shaam"

But with patience and strength you saved Islam
I am proud to say that I have such an imam (a.s)
